15,000 PEOPLE ARE HOMELESS

Eight Hundred Structures Burned-The Fire Raged Entire Day-The Loss Will Run Up to Twelve Millions.

Boston, April 13.—An area of 350 acres, representing nearly a quarter of the total area of the city, marks the scene of the great fire which swept through the business section of Chelsea last night, turning 10,-000 people out of their homes and causing a property damage which is estimated at $8,000,000.

Today the burned area is guarded by militiamen and marines to prevent any possible looting, and military regulations prevail throughout the city.

Early this morning only three persons are known, to have lost their lives in the conflagration, but it is feared that the number will be increased when the search of the ruing is made.

Over half a hundred people were injured and many of them were taken to hospitals suffering severely. Notwithstanding the efforts on all sides to render aid, there were thou sands of people who passed the night wandering the streets, shivering in the parks and squares.

As dawn broke, cold and gray, over the fire-swept city the fright of the night previous which had over come the population, disappeared. Parents roamed the streets, search ing for their lest children. All the school houses were filled with lost children, and scores of parents passed from one to another looking for their own. Bread lines were started at an early hour, and the search for additional bodies began as soon as daylight appeared.

Issue Appeal for Relief.

The following appeal for assistance. signed by Mayor Heck and Wm. E. McClintock, chairman of the relie: committee, was handed to the Associated Press today:

"We have been visited by a most terrible catastrophe and one-fourth the area of our city has been swep by fire. Fifteen thousand people are homeless and twelve million dollars' worth of property was destroyed. Our business section is almost wholly wiped out and we are in sore need. We have not lost courage, but are applying curselves with all our ability to the task before us.

The task is a stupendous one, and we ask assistance of all who are lerevolently inclined. He who gives quickly gives doubly. Subscriptions court in Chicago last Monday. may be sent to the city treasurer, Thomas B. Frost."

PLEDGES AND BLUFFS

The democrats have called the bluff of the republicans. If Roosevelt and the republican leaders really desire the legislation which the president has been urging in his messages the democrats will supply the necessary votes. There are 220 republicans and 166 democrats in congress, yet John Sharp Williams, the leader of the minority, has given his party pledge to pass the legislation urged by Roosevelt if the republicans furnish only twenty-five votes for the program. ### TARIFF REVISION FARCE.

Two years ago, when the elections for the present congress were pending, President Roosevelt put himself at the head of the standlpatters in his letter to Representative Watson, of Indiana, in which he pretended that the tariff was a prime factor of national prosperity and that agitation for revising it was fraught with danger to all business interests. But then, as now, the great tariff-fistered monopolies-the steel trust, the lumber trust, the paper trust, the sugar trust and the rest of these combinations--were despoiling the country apace, and manufacturers in New England were pleading for relief from their extortions. Then, as now, was fully seen the working of the barbarous schedule of wool and woolens, with its invitation to smuggling in a hundred per cent duty; with its enormous adulterations of woolen clothing because of the tariff-made scarcity of pure wool, and with its attack upon the health of the peo-

And what kind of a tariff revision do they promise? To destroy the spoliatory power of the trusts, to reform the barbarous schedule of wool and woolens, and to repeal the duties on hides and other raw materials? Not at all. Let the Ohio and Iowa platforms supply the answer. While strictly maintaining the protective principle, they are going to impose customs duties in accordance "with the difference in cost of production at home and abroad." The fraudulency of this pretense is be trayed by the fact that in the tariff schedules upon which reform is demanded cost of production is lower in this country than anywhere else in the industrial world.

This, then, adds the Philadelphia republicans out of a vast deal Record, is the great opportunity of trouble. the democratic party to rescue the paramount issue of this contest from the entangiements, sophistries and humbugs of republican politicians and place it on its true ground before the country. ### REMARKABLE RESULTS REPORTED

Right-Handed Humans Declared to Rob Themselves of Half Their Power-The Treatment Is Comparatively New.

Berlin, April 13.—"Man must become ambidextrous," declared Prof. Manfred Fraenkel, Berlin's celebrated authority on the brain. "He must be taught to employ his left hand a irequently and as adroitly as his right hand.

"Then both hemispheres of his brain will be equally developed, equally nourished, will send forth equally powerful nerve stimulation. And if the left half of his brain be Jamaged by injury or by disease, the right half, having been constantly stimulated by active use, will continue to act. So the number of men plunged in intellectual gloom or rendered helpless by paralysis will be vastly decreased. Such, in effect, is Prof. Fraeaken's ambidexterity-using both hands His argument becomes perfectly clear to everybody who calls to mind that the left half of the brain governs the right side of the body and vice versa. This is because the great nerves starting from the brain hemispheres cross each other near the origin.

Let anyone place his palms together, finger tips out, then interlace his fingers and thumbs and bend them slightly. The body of each hand represents a brain lobe, the thumbs and fingers the nerves and their begin-

Fraenkel says positively, as the result of his researches, that had they learned the use of their left hands many persons now helpless paralytics would be useful members of society thanks to the right lobes of their brains. He goes even further and makes the astonishing statement that many cases of seeming paralysis can be cured by the simple expedient of teaching the sufferer to use the left

He tells of a patient, whose tengue, right hand and right side were paralyzed, but who recovered his power of speech by constantly practicing writing with his left hand. This patient suffered a second stroke of paralysis, which robbed him of all senor sitiveness, but did not again deprive him o' speech.

> Fraenkel reports another case, that of a 13-year-old boy, who lost his left hand from a gunshot wound. When The was 30 he became paralyzed on the right side, and besides, lost the power of speech. He had an artificial left hand. He was a miserable object. Prof. Fraenkel and Dr. Gutz mann fixed a ring of wood with spring on his artificial hand and be gan to teach him to write with it This stimul ted the right lobe of his brain and in a short time he found himself able to speak not only his mother tongue (German), but he iearned French and Russian. "Renewed life had been given to him," says Fraenkel, who adds that he could give similar cases out of his experiences. He declares:

"Men thoughtlessly have robbed themselves of half their power, phy sical and mental, by persistent use of the right hand and neglect of the left. This is all the more to be de plored considering the demands which the latense life of modern times im-

HABIT OF FOLDING THE ARMS.

It Causes Flat Chest and Round Shoulders-Natural Position.

By folding your arms you pull the shoulders forward, flatten the chest and impair deep breathing. Folding the arms across the chest so flattens it down that it requires a conscious effort to keep the chest in what should be its natural position. As soon as you forget yourself down drops the chest.

We cannot see ourselves as others see us. If we could many of us would be ashamed of our shapes. The position you hold your body in most of the time soon becomes its natural position. Continuously folding your arms across the chest will develop a flat chest and a rounded back.

Here are four other hints which should be made habits. Keep the back of the neck close to the back of the collar at all possible times. Always carry the chest farther to the front than any other part of the anterior body. Draw the abdomen in and up a hundred times each day. Take a dozen deep, slow breaths a dozen times each day.—Family Doctor.

REALLY GLAD TO GET HOME AGAIN

One Investigator Says She Is Su prised to Learn That Working Women Have No Hope and Dislike Their Labors.

New York, April 13.-Two college girls of wealthy families left New York a short time ago to study the conditions of the factory giris' life in Troy, N. Y. They have just returned to this city, very much wiser for their exploring expedition, and quite ready to tell of the adventures hey had. They worked, lived and 'played" with the factory girls, and are quite sure now that they know all about their poorer sisters.

One of the inquiring young women s Miss Gertrude Weeks, a cousin of R. W. DeForrest, the well known lawver. She is a graduate of the normal college. The other is Miss Eva Auerbach, of the 1907 class at Barnard. Miss Auerbach is the daughter of Meyer Auerbach, of No. 304 West Eighty-seventh street.

They left New York with $15 each for railroad fare, and a determination to live for two weeks on what they

They went to a working girls' home in Troy and told pitiful tales of their inability to get work in New York their invalid parents and their starv ing sisters and brothers. These tales were promptly declared "fishy" by the woman who kent the house, but was obliged to abandon her task for at length they obtained rooms for $4

> "I look your looks," he said. "Go epstairs, and I think we can make forewoman of you in a few days."

One day of the din and racket of the machine room and the wearisome work was enough for Miss Auerbach. She got herself transferred to the stamping department, where the work was lighter, and stayed there the rest

Miss Weeks worked hard for the position of forewoman, but the daily visits to her department of the superintendent who "liked her looks" led her to abandon the position.

At the end of the week both were thoroughly tired of being factory girls and returned to New York with just enough money to pay their car fare. When asked for her impressions of the factory girls, Miss Auerbach said:

"They are not at all as I expected to find them. So far as I saw in the factory where I worked the girls are a remarkably shiftless lot. They look upon their labors as an oppressive necessity, and get along with as little work as possible. A life of unending toil is the natural one to them, and it I had said that I had never worked before they would have looked upon me as a curiosity. They don't seem to have any ambition, and look on the future without hope.

"They are forever talking of their mashes' and money and the the-ayter. The poor things have few pleas ures. They spend most of their spare time in the cheap shows."

Both young women are students a the School of Philanthropy, and each is to write a thesis on her experience: n Troy.

FOR THE MURDER OF GOV. GOEBEL

Mr. Franklin, Attorney for the Commonwealth, Was Not Able to Be Present, and Adjournment Until Tomorrow,

Frankfort, Ky., April 13.-Governor Willson Saturday heard arguments for the pardon of James Howard and Caleb Powers, who have been convicted of complicity in the murder of William Goebel. Howard is under a life sentence.

Powers has been tried four times and convicted three times. The con victions were reversed by the court of appeals and his last trial resulted in a hung jury.

Attorney Sidney Trapp, of Atlanta, Ga., voluntarily brought a petition from citizens of that state and made a speech on behalf of Powers. Edward Doyle, a Chicago attorney, also presented a numerously signed petition for pardon, which he had secured in a tour of Illinois.

Powers' attorneys, J. B. Sims. W. C. Owens, S. M. Wilson, and Willson Smith, participated in the deliberations, though Governor Willson finally adjourned the proceedings until Tuesday because Commonwealth Attorney, R. B. Franklin, who had just been invited by the governor to be present, was unable to do so on ac count of illness.

Attorneys for Powers call particular attention to an affidavit by John C. Martin, alias Rogerson, who as a prisoner here was closely associated with Henry E. Youtsey, who was and in the assassination.

Meeting of Sorosis Ladies.

At this afternoon's meeting of the forosis ladies Mrs. W. H. Hall read a paper on 'Dryden," and Mrs. C. E. Caine led the discussion.

Is the joy of the household, for without it no happiness can be complete. How sweet the picture of mother and babe! Angels smile at and commend the thoughts and aspirations of the mother bending over the cradle. The ordeal through which the expectant mother must pass, however, is so full of danger and suffering that she looks forward to the hour when she shall feel the exquisite thrill of motherhood with indescribable dread and fear. Every woman should know that the danger, pain and horror of childbirth can be entirely avoided by the use of Mother's Friend, a scientific liniment for external use only, which toughens and renders pliable all the parts, and assists nature in its sublime work. By its aid thousands of women have passed this great crisis in perfect safety and without pain. Sold at $1.00 per bottle by druggists. Our book of priceless value to all women sent free. Address

It is delightful, remarks a kindly philosopher, to think how much fun a bright and healthy boy can get out of one cent. I saw such a boy the other day. He first bought a red top. After awhile he remembered that he wanted a green one, and he went back and exchanged the red top for a green one. Later he thought he didn't want. the top, after all, and he carried back the green top and exchanged it for candy. It would be waste of space to tell what he did with the candy, but it may be mentioned that he took the empty fancy wrapper back to the toy shop and offered to exchange it for a full one. This, however, was a little too much for the benevolent shopkeeper, who said: "We do everything we can to please our customers, but we lia Egg Co., 105 and 107 East Main can't give something for nothing."

DRY" WAVE HITS EASTERN ILLI-NOIS BASEBALL LEAGUE A HARD BLOW.

FOUR CITIES OUSTED THE SALOONS

This Was Done at Last Tuesday's Election, and Now the Question Is, Who Will Keep Up the Bali Players!

Mattoon, Ill., April 13.-Six of the eight cities of the Eastern Illinois Baseball league voted dry at the election last Tuesday, and the ofthazarded finances of the organization have received another jolt.

In Charleston, Pana, Mattoon and Paris the support of the teams has come in great part from the saloon interests and now that these cities are without thirst parlors extra efforts will be essential to keep the teams afloat.

In Charleston last year it was practically dependent upon the saloon keepers to finance the team, and in Pana the same is partially true. With the saloons out of business, subscriptions of new stock will be cancelled in many instances.

Practice in three of the cities for the 1908 season will commence to day. Together the eight clubs have more than 200 candidates under contract, and in all cities but Mattoon it will be necessary to hold an im! tation "college try-out" to select a playing team of twelve men, as equired by the constitution.

Taylorville, under the management of "Billy" Ryan, catcher for Keokuk, owa State league last year, leads n numbers, having fifty-three men signed, V. J. Madden, formerly of the Decatur Three-I team, has charge of forty men to select from.

"Billy" Sunday, the baseball evangelist, is holding a revival in Charles ton this month, and at present he is games on Sunday. As his influence form of kidney disease than any other is growing rapidly, other towns are fearful lest he is successful to some

"We have in this library several volumes that were held ten, fifteen and twenty years, and one book that was returned to us after being gone for over a century! It is one of a valuable set of classics and after succeeding in hiding itself so long finally turned up in Holland, where its label declared its lawful abode and the honest finder forwarded it to Philadelphia. Hard to Live Up To.

Here is a definition of a "gentle-Herald-Courier: "A man that's clean inside and outside, who neither looks up to the rich nor down on the poor. who can lose without squealing and win without bragging, who is considerate to women, children and old people, who is too brave to lie, too generous to cheat and who takes his share have theirs." Very nice; but it does sound very much like an obituary no tice or an epitaph for a tombstone.

PRESIDENT A. H. JOLINE, OF THE M., K. & T. MAKES A VERY BAD BREAK.

COACH, CAB AND CABOOSE ITEMS

Matters of Interest Picked Up From Various Sources for the Benefit of Democrat-Sentinel Readers.

The attack of President A. H. Joine, of the M., K. & T. railway, upon President Roosevelt and the railway regulation measures (printed in Sunday's Democrat-Sentinel in the shape of a St. Louis dispatch), was in bad taste and expected.

It was in bad taste, says the St. Louis Star-Chronicle, because he was a guest of the alumni association of his university, Princeton. It was expected, because of late no railway president is able to talk ten consecutive seconds without abusing Roosevelt for something or other.

But the hopeful part of the entire affair, the part of which St. Louis may well be proud of, was the almost unanimous defense of the president and his policies by Joline's own classmates and fellow alumni. Isaac H. Lionberger, himself an owner of railway stock, made a brilliant reply to Joline's criticism, and defended ably

Of recent years, however, the railroads have forgotten that they are the creatures. They have forgotten that they are the subjects. Instead, Katy hospital: they have arrogated to themselves the power of creators and the rights of rulers. Then it became necessary, for the very life of our form of gov- Okla. ernment, to devise laws and regulations to rule and restrain these creatures of the state grown arrogant with wealth and drunk with power. Mo

No student of economic problems whether he be a holder of railroad stock or a laboring man believes for an instant that there should be no regulation. We have the testimony of the Harrimans and the Mortons to show to what extent the railroads have violated the laws long on the statute books. They not only object ed to more stringent regulation, but they openly violated the very liberal laws then in effect.

Mr. Joline is injudicious, too. The temper of the American people may not be aroused safely. It is either railway regulation and plenty of it or it is government ownership. Joline had best endure the ills he has than to fly to those he knows will be far

The St. Louis Republic of Sunday had a true-to-life picture of Col. J West Goodwin, of this city, together with the following:

All doubt as to the approach of the campaign was dispelled by the visit last week to the city of Col. J. West Goodwin, of Sedalia, one of the oldest editors in the state, who established the first democratic newspaper south of the Osage river after the civil war, the Springfield Leader, known formerly as the Southwest

Col. Goodwin says he has "retired from politics," although he admits that he is still very much interested. He says he will take no active part in the campaign.

Col. Goodwin was born in Jefferson county, New York, in 1836, and spent more than half a century publishing newspapers in various parts of the country. His first effort was in Lewis county, New York, where he conducted a paper until 1857.

For four years Col. Goodwin conducted a newspaper in Indiana, at Lafayette and at Liberty, discontinuing the publication when the ci-il war

Col. Goodwin was captured three times by Confederate soldiers—once at Florence, Ala., again at Franklin, Ky., and a third time at Columbia, Tenn. Twice he escaped, once at Florence, Ala., by climbing a tree and hiding in the branches until his captors marched away, and again by cutting a hole in the back of the guar! tent while the sentinel was asleep.

In describing the last incident Col. Goodwin said: "I thought every minute the guard would be awakened. Each thread of the canvas seemed to snap like the report of a cannon and I can't for my life see how I got away. But I did and walked all the wav from Franklin to Henderson."

Col. Goodwin says that if he had his life to live over again he would be a printer and publish a newspaper. He is a life member of the Missouri

Editors' association, that honor having been conferred upon him at the last meeting of the organization in this city a year ago.

now says he will fight the case to the supreme court if necessary. He claims that another lawyer told him he and Miss Clark can marry whenever they want to.

Some months ago "Rev." Delk and Miss Bonnyline Clark, whose name is really Mrs. Estes, until her divorce becomes operative, became acquainted in Fort Scott, where Delk was holding meetings and Miss Clark was a cadet in the Salvation corps. The singer assisting Delk, Walter Emigh, became acquainted with a Fort Scott young woman. The engagement of Emigh and Miss Murphy was announced. Relatives of Miss Murphy stated that this wedding and that of 'Rev." Delk and Cadet Clark would occur at the same time.

This was evidently a mistake, for inquiry at Leavenworth elicited the information that "Miss Clark" was eally Mrs. Estes and had a divorce suit pending in court there. She has since been granted a divorce but under the Kansas law it does not become operative for six months. The Murphy-Emigh wedding occurred and the couple are traveling with Delk.

When Delk came to Springfield also came Miss Clark. While Delk was conducting the meetings at the chapel Miss Clark Worked with the Union mission for several days. Now the mission folks and Delk and his as sistants are holding a ten-nights' meeting in the court house.

Delk's pulpit methods are rather out of the ordinary. To quote one of his own notices of a recent meeting "he tries to be a thunderbolt." Not infrequently he does acrobatic stunts while preaching. When conducting meetings in Fort Scott two years ago he received a letter warning him to leave town. It was claimed that he used language which was anything but acceptable in mixed audience. Delk sometimes tells his audiences of fistic activities performed by him on different occasions.

In fact, the "Rev." Mr. Delk drifted into The Republican office yesterday and threatened to pummel a reporter if he should dare to publish the story about his pulpit raiment having been attached. Mr. Delk may be a good hand at threshing the golden grain from the Good Book for aught the re porter knows, but he isn't going to thresh anybody in The Republican office. It wouldn't be right for Mr. Delk to lick a reporter. In the first place he's an athlete, and secondly, he's an evangelist, and an evangelist hadn't ought to fight anybody but the

If Lawyer Galt, part of whose cog nomen is of Biblical derivation, overcharged "Rev." Mr. Delk for informing him that he is not privileged to marry a divorced woman, that's a question for the courts to determine. The show-boy evangelist can't blame newspaper reporters because he can't wed when he feels the love chords of his heart twanging a soulful dittynot a bit of it-because reporters know far less about love affairs than

Miss Bonnyline Clark, who is to become Mrs. Delk some day, is very much a lady of culture and refinement. She claims that she was forced into her first marriage and that she did not live with her husband a single day. HOW FORMER SENATOR F. M COCKRELL RETAINS HIS EX-CELLENT HEALTH.

PATRONIZES MODEL RESTAURANT

Senator Warner Now Has His Office in "Old Library Space" of the Capitol-Negro Thief Gets Stone's Loud Shirts.

Washington, April 13. - Former Senator Cockrell, of Missouri is still called "Senator" by every body in Washington, though he has been an interstate commerce commissioner for the last three years, used to attract the attention of the senate galleries by his habit of eat ing a luncheon, consisting of an apple and a glass of milk, while keeping an eye on legislation. Now the veteran statesman at the luncheon hour slips out of the commission's offices on F street and regales himself at a modest little restaurant just around the corner on Thirteenth street. So ordinary in its appearance is Senator Cockrell's new eating place that it always has been overlooked by the clerks and other employes of the commission, who are subordinate to Senator Cockrell. But just at pres. ent, since it has been discovered that one of the officials of the department patronizes the place, it is enjoying a season of popularity. Clerks who once passed by the little lunch room scornfully now fall over themselves to get up until Dewey promises to vote for

For a long time after Senator Cockrell took up his duties at the interstate commerce commission he ate his lunch at his desk. He would munch an apple while pouring over the evidence in some case. The confinement began to tell on him, and he finally was compelled to go to Florida for his health. Later, he went to Long Branch, N. J. While at these resorts he became convinced that he needed more outdoor exercise and began to take long walks daily.

His new program also called for a change in his eating habit. found that a couple of apples were not sufficient to appease his appetite. So he began to go out for his luncheon, but where he went was a mystery. He never invited anybody to go with him, and he always went

One day the senator, as he was about to enter his favorite eating place, bumped up against a friend. "Why, Senator, I am surprised.

Where in the world are you going?" asked the friend;

"Sh'," said Senator Cockrell, holding up his finger. "Don't tell any body. You can get the best buttermilk in town in here."

When an enterprising (in his line) negro, slouched along an alley back of the fashionable Sixteenth street, discovered and appropriated a bas ketful of clothes that happened to be standing in a doorway, he made away with practically the entire stock of shirts, collars, socks and other things, said to include silk pajamas belonging to Senator William J Stone, of Missouri, and Senator Stone's private secretary, F. States to live. Senator Stone, and his secretary patterns after him in this, believes that the way to have washing done is to have a regular old-time washer woman do it.

This was how it happened. The washer woman got the clothes, took them home, washed them, and, intending shortly to deliver, left them in the basket in her doorway. Probably the negro thief had seen the resplendant shirts, etc., hanging on the line. They were just the kiad to stir such a one to crime. And it hap-

ERRING BRIDE LEAD SLEUTH TO THE HIDING PLACE OF EMBEZZLER.

Crooked Railroad Agent Had Tired of Woman's Affections and Was Trying to Throw Her Overhoard.

St. Louis, Mo., April 13.-The inatuation of the 19-year-old bride of enother man for J. W. Bryant, confessed embezzler of thousands of dol lars from the Frisco while he was its station agent at Rocky, Ok., led to his arrest two weeks after his flight Bryant was taken through St. Louis Saturday night on the way to Rocky, in the custody of Ernest Poindexter, special attorney for the American Surety Bonding Co., who captured

According to Bryant's story, he left the woman, who married a warehouse man at Rocky six months ago, with the promise that he would send for her to join him. He told her to write him at Norton, Va., under the name of W. H. Wood. But he had no intention of keeping his promise he said, for he had already tired of he young bride's devotion.

She was not so easily shaken off, however, and was not discouraged when eight letters, which she had written him were not answered. She wrote herself a telegram, purporting to come from her former home in Michigan, and signed "Sister." It stated that her mother was dying and that she should come home at once

Armed with the telegram, the woman obtained money from her husband for a ticket to her home. When finished pair of shoes she took the train she did not know that she was followed by A. T. Lawrence, an inspector for the bonding company, who had been watching her since Bryant's escape. On the train she wrote another letter to Bryant, telling him she had forsaken home and husband for his the white man's shoes by their squeak. sake, and besecching him to meet ner in Chicago.

The inspector succeeded in intercepting the letter before it was mailed, opened it, made a copy, re sealed the envelope and mailed it He followed the woman to Chicago, hoping that Bryant would abey her At the same time he directed Poindexter to go to Norton and arrest Fryant if he : emained there. Poindexter, on reaching the town, learned that Bryant had merely changed trains there, and had proceeded to Tom's Cheek, Va., a mining town, the home of his parents. There Poindexter arrested him. Bryant took his capture cooly. "I'm glad of one thing," he said, "and that is that I spent all the money before was caught." He made no objection to accompanying the attorney to the scene of his thefts to stand trial "I spent lots of the money playing poker," he told Poindexter. "My ancestors, Virginians, all gambled, and I had the vice in my blood.

I was ill for several months at Rocky, and had my bed moved to the railroad office, so that I could continue my work. Friends came to see me every night, and we whiled away the time with poker. They got a big slice of what I stole.

"My operations covered three months, and consisted in suppressing way bills. I would collect freight charges, hide the waybills in my trunk and keep the money. On March 29 I heard that the auditor was on the way to Rocky, and decided it was time to leave."

Bryant is 28 years old. He was held prisoner for several hours in the offices of the bonding company in St. Louis. The woman, it is said, after a fruitless wait for her lover in Chicago, went on to Michigan.

THEY GAVE HIM A HEARTY OV TION AT FORT SCOTT, KANSAS.

WAS THE SAME OLD BURTON, TOO

Made Speech Which Was Punctuated By Some Scenes That Were Almost Wild-Government By the People.

One of the most remarkable public gatherings ever held in Fort Scott hall last night, presided over and addressed by J. R. Burton, former United States senator from Kansas, says Saturday's Fort Scott Tribune. It was dark, it was raining and the streets were heavy in mud, yet seven hundred men and women turned out to hear the man. The speech was fore their arrival the stranger fled. wildly cheered at times and the Father Scanlan made no effort to hold crowd went away with an apparently than it had when it entered the hall.

Burton was always regarded as an orator of rare ability, but it was never guessed that he could so completely recapture a crowd by and remained so for several hours Mother of Young Women Ther Con- force of his genius as he did the big audience last night. At some of his climaxes the crowd fairly shricked in > Burton wore a Prince Albert coat, gray trousers and appeared in much the same attire as when a senator somewhat older than when last seen here, but his eyes had not lost that firey flash and his voice rang out as of yore. But Burton is a changed man. His bitter experience which cost drawn him into an attitude hitherto sas republican leader. Had last night's speech come from any other man save Burton it would have created a furore here—and it did, anyway, for that matter. It was the most talked of speech ever delivered be a correct estimate to state that deserved, and is coming here because he is sore." But when the crowd went home it was a different feeling that almost every man nurtured toward the former senator. People technically made a blunder, but that the administration had hounded him and caused him to be persecuted rather than prosecuted. The crowd was composed of representatives of all political faiths and religions. And there were men from all walks in life. Several bankers, educators, ministers and doctors were among the

The ex-senator's religion is selfgovernment--the election of all officers by direct vote of the people. He attributes the concentration of harmful power and dangerous despotism at Washinton to the patron- pire and bloodshed would result age system, and his argument along this line is convincing and lucid. Coming from one who has been through the experience of being compelled to yield in a principle or lose his efficiency as a purveyor of patronage among his constituents, which, of course, means the loss of his office, his disclosures of the inside workings of Washington politics are interesting and enlightening. Burton isn't around boosting either the republicans or democrats. That has been charged, but his speech plainly disproved that. It has been charged that the democrats of the state were paying his expenses on this tour. Last night he crticised both the leading political faiths and advocated the establishment of a government based on the word of God and nearer the people. He was open in his attack on the president, whom he said held 500,000 offices in one hand and the big stick in the other Burton was convincing. "Suppose." he said, "that I give you an office that pays you well, but that I may take from you at any time. Burton is an orator in every sense dramatic force than many persons whose business it is to dramatize He infused in his speech that dramatic intensity that fairly electrified the crowd, and it was clearly the best speech he ever delievered here.

"Let's elect by direct vote of the people everything from polices judge to chief justice, and from postmaster to president," he shouted during a moment in which he was making an impassioned appeal for election of all office holders by direct vote of the people. "We are two million strong in Kansas and we elect Governor Hoch, but say to him. Governor, now we knew enough to elect you, but mind, "O, well, Burton got what he kou know more of our business than we do and you know better than we who we should chave for tax commissioners or bank examiners, and we want you to appoint these officers, I declare unto you that these went away believing that Burton had places should be filled by the peo ple's direct vote. I say that if any man holding the position of county assessor can change the politics of either republicans or democrats, why trust such things to the few when the masses may have a voice?"

Burton talked of the Bible a great deal last night. He seemed to have theme running through his address referring to the Biblical text. 'And the truth shall make you free.' He stated that while in grief he found solace by reading God's word, and that from its pages be gleaned the truth that government should be re stored to the people or that an em-Burton talked of the mission to eart? of Christ throughout his address.
